Challenging Organisations and Society. reflective hybrids® (COS)

COS is the first journal to be dedicated to the rapidly growing requirements of reflective hybrids in our complex 21st-century organisations and society. Its international and multidisciplinary approaches balance theory and practice and show a wide range of perspectives in and between organizations and society.

Being global and diverse in thinking and acting outside the box are the targets for its authors and readers in management, consulting and science.

Feel free to become part of our movement, follow what happens in hard copy and online, and join our Linked-in group.
